

words and music
by Joel Justin

Another Chase

I wanna live the way we used to live I wanna have all the love we used to give I'm reminded when I see your face another run another hide another chase it's been too damn long since I've fallen in love I'm just waiting for you to come home do you remember how I used to make you laugh how I promised you would never feel alone and I promised from my heart that you would never cry again but you were feeling like you needed to roam still I'm reminded when I see your smiling face

another run another hide another chase

if I've been chasing down the stars trying to lighten your life you just laugh you just say what you will there ain't a man alive that can love you like I there ain't a thrill I can't fulfill and if I'm too damn bright and that don't suit you right I'm well rehearsed and I know overkill Still I'm reminded when I see your smiling face

another run another hide another chase

and I felt like lying and I almost called off this game I almost told you I was leaving but I knew it wouldn't mean a thing
I wanna live the way we used to live
I wanna have all the love we used to give we don't seem to know to fall into place
another run another hide another chase

a cold wind blows so the story goes two people never find the need they know what they want but they go with what they got that ain't ever been true with you and me cause I know I'm what you want and I know I'm what you need but you keep trying just to cut me free still I'm reminded when I see your smiling face

another run another hide another chase
another run another hide another chase
another run another hide another chase.